

Paris Match Article

We are excited to announce that the widely read French public magazine Paris-Match has featured an interview with Professor Guy Vallancien, head of the urology department at the Institut [of] Mutualiste Montsouris Paris. Professor Vallancien is the leading pioneer of robotic laparoscopic surgery for the treatment of prostate cancer and is considered a world renowned expert in the field. In the attached article, please find his comments on the current benefits of EDAP's robotized Ablatherm-HIFU device. It is important to point out that while pursuing his work as a surgeon he is also strongly supporting and embracing HIFU technology as one of the viable and proven treatment options among the different forms of treatment. We are appreciative of such enduring support from a historically leading user of our technology.

Yours sincerely,

Marc Oczachowski
